

Narragansett Bay Insurance, a Heritage Company, Supports Super Bowl Themed Initiative to Feed Local Families

More than $173,000 raised through telethon donations, staffed by NBIC team members and other community volunteers from various organizations.

[February 11, 2026] This month, Narragansett Bay Insurance (NBIC), a Heritage Insurance Company, participated in a ‘Souper Bowl of Caring’ event to fight hunger in Rhode Island. This is NBIC’s second year supporting this initiative for the RI Community Food Bank, including a financial donation and volunteering for a telethon to gather donations from local businesses and residents. This event is held in conjunction with the NFL Super Bowl, to draw on energy surrounding the big game.

CEO of The Heritage Companies Ernie Garateix said “We are proud to provide financial support and volunteerism for community initiatives like the Souper Bowl of Caring to show our commitment to the well-being of the communities we serve. We recognize the importance of initiatives that support fighting hunger, and we are grateful to the team members who took part in supporting the Rhode Island Community Food Bank with other local volunteers.”

President of Narragansett Bay Insurance Company Timothy Moura said “We are grateful for the opportunity to support the Souper Bowl of Caring event for the second year in a row. The company is always looking for meaningful ways to give back to our policyholders and the communities we serve, and this event allows us to help support local efforts to fight hunger. Through volunteering and donations, we’re proud to show up for our community, and I’m especially thankful for the team members and community volunteers who helped staff the telethon to raise donations.”
